Braunschweig, 19th March 2018 – At the beginning of April, Paris will become the central meeting place for decision-makers from the fields of information technology, multimedia and telecommunications. For the fifth time now, the distributor for electronics accessories Wentronic is on site as an exhibitor in order to present its extensive product range including the brands Goobay, Clicktronic, iBaby, 3SIXT, Dobot and HP Accessories.

Products from the iBaby brand, in particular, are expected to attract attention among trade visitors. The innovative baby monitors can be conveniently controlled via smartphone or tablet. Trade fair visitors in Paris can see for themselves the two-way audio transmission, HD video quality, and the special sensors to check room temperature and air quality.

With 3SIXT, retailers can be among the first on the market to offer high-quality, practical, yet affordable, accessories for mobile devices. A further selling point is the striking lifestyle packaging, which will impress MedPi visitors.

The smartphone gimbal Rigiet from the leading provider of robot arm solutions, Dobot, which has been exclusively available from Wentronic since the beginning of the year, is a further highlight at the counter. The image stabiliser Rigiet makes it possible for both amateur filmmakers and professional users to achieve blur-free images.

Wentronic's proprietary brand Goobay offers retailers high-performance, reliable accessories that simplify the user's everyday life. The focus of the extensive Goobay product range at this year's MedPi lies on USB-C™. Higher-performance, more user-friendly, future-proof and universal –
